Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 14 and 16-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 14, the last two lines, it is unclear what applicant intends as "a spring" because in the elected embodiment of Fig. 7, comprising the radial teeth, there does not appear to be a spring member. The claims were examined as best understood.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 14 and 16-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hadley (US 4,014,449) as applied to claim 14 and further in view of Dischler (US 6,729,487). Hadley discloses an anti-tamper cap comprising an a cap with an internally threaded body (2) and a cap envelope (1) shaped to prevent access to the threaded body and connected thereto through a radial free tripper (6, 8) allowing rotation only in the screwing direction by hand while requiring a tool (24) for rotation in an opposite direction due to engagement of contacting surfaces (see Fig. 1). The free tripper includes radial teeth (8) on the external surface of the internally threaded member (2) and protuberances (6) on an internal surface of the cap envelope (1) and the flexibility of the radial teeth reads as a "spring". Dischler discloses a similar cap but includes polygonal shaped knurls (see Fig. 12B). At the time the invention was made, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the cap of Hadley with knurls as disclosed in Dischler in order to improve the finger grip to the cap. The combination with a tire valve is considered as intended use of which Hadley would be capable.

Response to Remarks

Applicant argues that the reference to Hadley fails to disclose a "spring". In the examiner disagrees because, similar to applicant's elected embodiment Hadley discloses a "spring" in the operation of the teeth in that they are flexible thus "spring" back into engagement after being deflected. Furthermore, as noted above, the claims refer to the spring as a separate element which is indefinite since there is not a separate spring element shown in the elected embodiment of Fig. 7.
